ENGIE makes CDP's A List for the fourth year in a row

For the fourth year running, ENGIE has been placed on the A List by CDP, the non-financial rating agency specialising in environmental impact. CDP's annual score is widely recognised as the global benchmark for corporate environmental transparency.

ENGIE has been recognised for its actions to reduce its CO₂ emissions, mitigate climate risks and develop the low-carbon economy, based on data submitted by the company as part of the 2019 questionnaire on climate change.

Since 2015, the Group has reduced its direct CO₂ emissions (known as scope 1) by more than 50%, increased its solar power generation capacity six-fold, and increased its wind capacity by 20%. It committed in early 2019 to a 9 GW increase in its installed capacity for renewable electricity production by 2021.

ENGIE's CEO Isabelle Kocher said: "ENGIE has undergone a transformation since 2016, to support its customers towards the zero-carbon transition and thus to preserve the planet. This transformation has led us to become a company with a positive impact on people's lives. These continuous efforts have allowed the Group to get back on the road to growth and profits. We are pleased that our environmental performance and commitments have been recognised in this way by a benchmark agency like CDP."

Paul Simpson, CEO of CDP, said: "Congratulations to the companies that achieved a position on CDP's A List this year, for leading in environmental performance and transparency. The scale of the business risks from the climate emergency are vast – as are the opportunities from addressing them – and it's clear the private sector has a vital role to play at this critical time. The A List companies are leading the market in corporate sustainability, tackling environmental risks and setting themselves up to thrive in tomorrow's economy."

CDP assesses companies each year on the completeness of their declaration, their level of awareness and their management of environmental risks, as well as their demonstration of best practices associated with environmental leadership, such as the definition of ambitious and relevant objectives.

About CDP

CDP is a global non-profit organisation that drives companies and governments to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions, safeguard water resources and protect forests. Voted number one climate research provider by investors and working with institutional investors with assets of USD 96 trillion, CDP leverages investor and buyer power to motivate companies to disclose and manage their environmental impacts. More than 8400 companies with over 50% of global market capitalisation disclosed environmental data through CDP in 2019. This is in addition to the more than 920 cities, states and regions that disclosed, making CDP's platform one of the richest sources of information globally on how companies and governments are driving environmental change. CDP is a founding member of the We Mean Business Coalition.
